The crop of Independents in the South is still increasing and Bourbonism is confronted with its doom.

Now that a Republican Congress has taken the Chinese question out of politics, what will the Democrats do for another scarecrow?

There is a general desire expressed in all parts of the country that Mr. Blame accept a nomination for Congress. The House needs the courage, the dash, the intellectual power, the brilliancy, the experience and the leadership of that

According to the Cincinnati Gazette there are two thousand saloons in that city, or about one to every 137 inhabitants. The most remarkable thing about it is that the average tax paid by them is but a trifle over three dollars each. It is no wonder saloons rapidly multiply in that city when they are virtually permitted to do business free.

A history of Penobscot county, Maine, was published recently, in which a certain lawyer in the county was reported as being dead, and a very fitting and complimentary obituary followed. The la wyer, however, was not dead, and when he read how good a man he was and how the community deeply mourned his loss, he began an action for five thousand dollars damages. That lawyer dosen't seem to appreciate a good thing when he sees

The funeral of the lamented ex-Governor Washburn took place at La-Crosse yesterday afternoon. It was one of the very largest funerals ever held in Wisconsin. Distinguished visitors were present from all parts of the Northwest and the attendance of civic societies and military companies, was greater than at any previous funeral services held in the State. In our telegraphic columns will be found particulars regarding the ser-are to be nine members,-two protectionists, two free traders, and five practical merchants. Of course it is an important commission but one would not suppose that there would be a rush for places on the commission. But the mania for office is still on the increase, and already there are over two hundred applications for appointments, and more are reaching the President every day. Not one in ten of the applicants are fit to sit on the commission. But it is the ten dollars a day and expenses, they are after.

There is now a question before th Foreign Affairs committee of the House over which Mr. Williams presides, as to what shall be done with that man Shipherd. He is a disgusting piece of humanity as ever attempted to gam notoriety through fraud. He declines to give the testimony demanded by the commitinvestigating now Peruvian matter, but wants to substitute therefor, a mass of documentary contributions. Some members of the committee are willing to give Shipherd all the margin he wants, while others do not wish him to have any more liberties than any other witness. Mr. Williams takes the of dispensing with Shipherd and all that a hymn, the first line of which was: appertains to him. This would be the best way to get rid of him and stop any further foolishness.

If reports be true the Republican party is about to lose one of its greatest boons-Samuel J. Tilden. The movement to place him in the front in 1884 seems to have met with a misfortune. It is dying for want of support. Mr. Tilden has been counted a corpse many times, but he has been resuscitated time after time, and was able to give the Democratic aspirants some annoyance. But now the corpse appears deader than ever, and the Young Democratic Club of New York, which was governed by the spirit of Tilden, has given up all hope of bringing their chief to political life. Mr. Tilden has done a great deal of good for the Republican cause. He has helped it amazingly in one way and another-by ciphers in particular-and the Republican party will mourn to hear of his fate. It has been suggested that when the epitaph shall be put on his political grave it be this line:

"Here lies one whose name is writ in cipher."

The Milwaukee Sentinel has been sold to the stockholders of the Milwaukee Re publican, an official notice of which is found in the Republican as follows:

"The negotiations which have been in progress for some time past for the purchase of the stock of The Daily Sentinel, held by Messrs. Murphey and McCord, were brought to a conclusion yesterday. The stock was sold to gentlemen interested in The Republican and News, and days, a single morning paper will replace the two which have heretofore been published in this city in the English language. Messrs. Murphey and McCord resign as President and Secretary, as well as directors of The Sentinel Company, and new officers will be chosen. By this arrangement, it is believed that the people of Milwaukee and of Wisconsin will be supplied with a stronger and better journal than has heretofore been published in the State. No pains will be spared to make it, in every respect, a first-class newspaper. The present subscribers of both The Republican and The Sentinel will of course receive the new journal which will take their places."

HANGED.

Special to the Gazette. New York, May 19 .- A. D. Leighton, colored, was hanged this morning for the murder of his mistress. The noose did not slip, and he was strangled to death. When he was cut down the chest was heaving and the throat gurgling, while the spectators were horrified at the sight.

FUNERAL RITES.

the Remains of Gen. C. C. Washburn

LA CROSSE, WIS., May 18 .-- At 7 o'clock last evening a special train bearing the remains of ex-Gov. C. C. Washburn and the accompanyning delegations from Madison, Milwaukee Chicago and other places arrived in this city and were met at the depot by the LaCrosse and Governor's Gaurd, who had been assigned the duty of relievening the Lake City Guard. of Madison, from escort service on the arrival were, The remains were taken to the court house, followed by vast crowds, where they lay in state until the time of the funeral this afternoon. The day has been cloudy, though pleasant and at an early hour this morning until the time of the burial services vast crowds of the people passed through the court house to take a last look at the man all appreciated. The casket was placed on a catafalque, which was handsomely decorated with flowers. The floral designs were very beautiful, never in this city has there been an equal display.

Long before the appointed hour for the funeral vast crowds assembled in the court house, and there were fully five thousand people within the square. The stores were all closed at noon, and at that hour the militia and other organizations which were to participate made prepara-tion for the funeral. The services began other witness. Mr. Williams takes the proper view of the matter and is in favor Minneapolis, followed by the singing of elty in politics to see Blaine arrayed

What is life? 'Tis but a vapor! Followed by two verses of "Nearer my God to Thee." Then came the address. The services were held within the building, and the vast assemblage of hearers had no opportunity to listen to the sermon. At the close of the service the remains were borne to the hearse by the following pall-bearers: C. L. Colman, A. Giles, J. S. Medory, G. M. Woodward, B. F. Bryant, W. W. Crosby, James McCord, G. C. Hixon, J. B. Webb and Theo. Rodolf. The procession formed in the following order:

Band.
Milwaukee Light Horse Squadron.
Governor's Guard.
Lake City Guards.
La Crosse Light Guards.
Clergy.
Pall Bearers.

Veterans of the Second Wisconsin Cavalry.
Relations and Intimate Friends.
State Officers, Judges of Supreme Court, Regents and faculty of the State University.
Ex-Governors and other distinguished visitors.
City and county officials,
Boards of trade.
Minneapolis and La Crosse civic societies.
Citizens in carriages.

The procession moved along Third street to Main and up Main to Cemetery street. Along the line of the procession the stores and residences were tastefully decorated. The streets were completely lined with people. The pro-cession was over a mile in length and consisted chiefly of societies and citizens

At the cemetery sentinels had been plac-ed on either side of the entrance to keep the people out until after the procession had entered. Arriving at the vault where the remains were to be deposited, the militia were drawn up on either side, the societies and citizens in the rear. The relatives and immediate friends then assembled around the casket, and the services consisted of a song by a male chorus, and prayer. After the remains had been deposited in the vault the malitia gave a farewell saiute, three volleys, and the assembly dispersed. The societies and miit is expected that, in the course of a few litia formed in procession in the same order as when entering the grove and filed out. Fully four thousand people were in attendance not including those in the

COLD-BLOODED MURDER.

Mount Vernon, Ill., May 18.—Charles W. Yost, a young man well and favorably known in this city, who followed the business of tobacconist, was shot and almost instantly killed about 6 o'clock this evening, by N. A. Smith, who has for several years acted in the capacity of city marshal. Those acquainted with the facts pronounce the case one of deliberate, cold-blooded murder. The parties met accidentally this evening at the hour named in the law office of Judge Satterfield, on the second floor of the Phœnix block. The quarrel was renewed, hot words passed, resulting in the marshal's drawing his revolver and emptying the contents of three of its chambers into the body of Yost. The latter, after being shot, ran down the stairway to the side-walk, followed by Smith, when he fell upon his face and expired. Smith, after gazing upon his victim and satisfying himself that he had completed his bloody work, drew a second revolver, and with one in each hand he passed defiantly of the new paper. The consolidation mounting the animal, fled to the woods. The affair has created the most intense excitement. Everybody is upon the streets. Telegrams to intercept the fugitive have been sent in various directions, while the country round about is being scoured by well-armed parties of citizens.

FIRE RECORD.

Special to the Gazette.

Paris, May 19 .- A fire broke out in the work shops and factories this morning, destroying over a million dollars worth of property. Three thousand hands are out of work.

St. Louis, May 18.—The fertilizing establishment which burned in East St. Louis last night was insured for $29,000 in twenty Eastern companies. It is believed the fire was the work of an engineer who was discharged more than a year ago, and who has several times since made threats against the concern.

St. Louis, May 18.—Ten business houses, one hotel, and two dwellings in the town of Chamois, on the Missouri Pacific railroad, 100 miles west of here, burned to-day. Loss about $40,000; insured for $10,000.

SENECA FALLS, May 18.—Gleason's knitting mill is in flames and will be destroyed, with a loss of $100,000. Insured. Three hundred operatives are thrown out of employment.

OLYMPIA, Wash. Ter., May 18.—A fire this morning destroyed a number of busiess houses. The total loss will reach $75,000; insurance, two-thirds that CHESTER, Pa., May 18.—Oliver Holt's woolen mill at Swarthmore, burned. Loss $40,000.

BLAINE.

WASHINGTON, May 17 .- There is a runor that Mr. Blaine is considering a proposition to take the stump for the Independents in Pennsylvania this fall. It is said that he will not adopt the method proposed by his friends of coming back into public life by way of the State of against Don Cameron.

Washington, May 17.—The most interesting political rumor of the higher cir-cles to-night is that Blaine will take the stump in Pennsylvania next fall for the Independent ticket. Some people are sanguine enough to believe that this means the election of the Independent ticket. This is, of course, almost improbable, unless it be indorsed by the Democratic convention.

STEAMER WRECKED,

Sandusky, Ohio, May 18.—The steamer American Eagle burst her boiler at 4 p. m. to-day, off Kelly's Island. Two deck hands, Lorenz Neilson and Frank Walter, of this city, and the fireman, Frank Bittle, of this city, were killed; Chas. Kramer, cook, and Hugo Stiart, mate, were slightly injured. Engineer J. W. Johnson, of Put-in-Bay, is probably fatally scalded. The following passengers were injured by escaping steam:
John Lutes, wife, and daughter, Middle
Bass Island; J. W. Gilbert and William Ditger, Sandusky; James Fulton, Ballast Island. All the injured, except Miss Lutes and Johnson, are getting along nicely.

OBITUARY.

NEW YORK, May 18 .- Mrs. Helen M. Slocum, a well-known speaker and writer on various questions of reform-notably woman's rights and Spiritualism—died on Tuesday last, after a long and painful illness, at the residence of her husband and herself, No. 47 West Thirty-seventh street, in this city. Mrs. Slocum, while she never aspired to the position of leader in the various movements with which she identified herself, was a most valued and thoroughly appreciated advocate. Her personal character and standing in society were above any question, and the weight of her influence was felt to be considerable. She was the wife of Dr.

ences, and her last public address was made in favor of the movement recently inaugurated to secure the appointment of police matrons in the station houses. She was a native of Vermont, and was connected with some eminent families of Rhode Island.

JOURNALISTIC.

MILWAUKEE, May 18 .- Papers were signed and the money paid this afternoon in the transaction giving the owners of the Daily Republican possession of the Daily Sentinel. This is considered one of the most important journalistic changes ever made in the West. The Sentinel is forty-five years old, and was owned for several years by the late Senator Matt H. Carpenter. ble tempter, whispering of unique designs, grotesque or otherwise, to be worked out upon desk or jacket, or perhaps upon the back of one small hand.

Well, upon the afternoon of which I am going to tell you, I had had more correcting to do than usual, for some of the scholars were stupid, and couldn't do as I wished; and others were careless and didn't try. What with the less, and didn't try. What with the looking, and stooping, and continual showing, I felt my patience giving way, and when I saw that three of the largest boys had left the page upon which they should have been practicing, and were making "unknown characters" in different parts of their books, I lost it utterly.
"That I will not have," said I, sharply.
"I will punish any boy who makes a mark upon any but the lesson-page."

They were very still for a while. Nothing was heard but the scratch, of my footsteps as I walked up and down the aisles. Involuntarily, I found myself studying the hands before me as if they had been faces. There was Harry Sanford's, large and plump, and flabby withal, but not over clean. His "n's" stood weakly upon their legs, seeming to feel the need of other letters to prop them up. Walter Lane's, red and chapped, with short, stubbed fingers, nails bitten off to the quick, had yet a certain air of sturdy dignity; and his "n's," if not handsome, were certainly plain, and looked as if they knew their place, and meant to keep it.

Tommy Silver's, long and limp, besmeared with ink from palm to nail, vainly strove to keep time with a tongue which wagged uncertainly, this way and that, and which should have been red, but was black, like the fingers. His " r'z" had neither form nor comeliness, and might have stood for "v's," or even "x's," qu te as well.

Then there was Hugh Bright's hand, hard and rough with work, holding the pen as if it never meant to let it go; but his "n's" were "n's," and could not be mistaken for anything else.

At length I came to Frank Dunbar's desk-dear little Frank, who had been a real help and comfort to me since the day when he bashfully knocked at my Soor, with books and slate in hand. His hand was white and shapely; fingers spotless, nails immaculate, and his "n's" dear, if I should live a thousand years, stuff is Hop Bitters. I could never tell you how I felt when I found that Frank Dunbar had written half a dezen letters upon the opposite page of his copy-book.

"Why, Frank," said I, "how did that happen?"
"I did it."

"You did it before I spoke?" said I. clinging to a foriorn hope. "No, 'm; I did it afterward. I for-

Vainly I strove to listen to my inward monitor. It seemed suddenly to have become two-voiced—the one tantalizing, the other soothing-and, of course, the sones were conflicting. "You must punish him," said one.

"You mustn't," said the other. "He deserves it." " He doesn't."

"He disobeved you flatly."
"But he forgot—and he has alway been so good."

"But you promised. You have give your word. Here are thirty boys to whom you should be an example. Do were regarding me intently; i almost fancied that they looked at me pityingly. I could not bear it.

"Attend to your writing, boys.
Then I walked slowly up to the desk. "You see how it is," sai I the trable some voice. "You will certainly have to punish him.'

But I had thought of a possible plan of escape. "Frank," said I, "you hav been disobedient, and—you know what I said, but—you are such a good boy that I cannot bear to punish you-not in that way, I mean. You may go to the foot of your class, instead." "I'd rather take the whipping.' The honest, upturned face was very sober, but betrayed not the least sign of fear, nor was there the slightest suspicion of a tremble in the clear, childish voice. "Bless your brave little heart," thought I. "Of course you would! I might have known it," and again I walked the aisles, up and down, thinking, thinking.

"You will have to do it," repeated the voice. "There is no other way." "I can not, -oh, I can't," I groaned,

"The good of the school requires it. You must sacrifice your own feeling and his." to her the following morning that she may try them on at home and select the "Sacrifice his feelings! Loyal little soul!-good as gold, and true as steel." "No matter, you must do it." "I won't!" I walked quickly to the desk, and struck the bell. The children looked wonderingly. "Listen to me, boys," said I. "You all know that Frank Dunbar is one of our best scholars." "Yes, 'm-yes, 'm !" came from all parts of the room, but two or three of the larger boys sat silent and unsym-"You know how ambitious he is in

"Disorderly," do you say? Well, perhaps it was. We were too much in earnest to think of that. I looked at Frank. His blue eyes were swimming in tears, which he would not let fall. As for me, I turned to the blackboard, and put down some examples in long division. If I had made all the divisors larger than the dividends, or written the numerals upside down, it would not have been at all strange, ir. the circumstances.

And the moral of this-concluded Miss Jenkins (she had just been reading "Alice in Wonderland")-is that a teacher is human, and a human being doesn't always know what to do. - Mary C. Bartlett, in St. Nicholas.

GOSSIP FOR THE LADIES. Think of Him.

Thing of me,
When the golden gleams of sunlight
Tinge the soft, sweet summer air,
And fall upon the hearts of men,
As the Voice that answers prayer;
As I think of thee, then think of me.

Think of me, When the shadows of the woodland,

Bathed in music half divine,

Think of me, When the dews of tearful twilight Quench the last belated ray, And the silver streams of moonlight

Trace the epitaph of day; As I think of thee, then think of me.

Think of me,

As adown thy dark, steep doorstep,

Like a falling star, I shoot,

And I recognize the motor

In thy stern dad's sterner boot; Then think of me-then-then, oh, then!

one which suits her. The poor milliner consents. At 9 o'clock she sends the bonnets. The lady is not up. Will the "young woman" call again a little later? The "young woman" consents to leave the bonnets until 3 o'clock. What does my lady do then? She takes the bonnet she likes best to a little working milliner in a back shop of a back street, and bids her make one exactly like the model she leaves with her until half-past 2 o'clock, when she takes it back to the grand milliner, saying that she is very sorry, but none of them "suit her."

> Ex-Gov. Hubbard's Daughter and Her Husband.

Newspaper readers will readily recall the elopement and marriage of a daugh ter of ex-Gov. Hubbard, of Connecticut, with a coachman named Shepard. It the couple were living in pinching poverty, but this statement is not true. Boon after the marriage they went to ard with Shepard's brother in Hart-Mrs. Shepard occasionally visited sisters, but the presence of her husband in the home of her father was strictly forbidden. Shepard has a wealthy uncle living in Middleton, Ct., who became interested in Shepard after the elopement. The uncle was somewhat nettled by insinuations that Shepard was not good enough for the young lady, and to show that the sympathy was practical made tender of pecuniary assistance. He made deposit of the necessary amount of money, and Shepard was enabled to purchase an interest in a well-estab-lished livery business in New Haven. Not only is the former coachman doing well in business, but he is conducting himself in a manly manner in other ways, and his wife is reported to be very happy. She is seen frequently driving in her phaeton, and, it is understood, is kindly received by many of her old friends in New Haven. Once in a while she goes to Hartford, and is noticed as being in perfect health and looking prettier than ever. She keeps up a thoroughly stylish appearance, and has mon-ey enough from her husband to warrant it, all of which proves that she is not "living in poverty," as thousands of people all over the country, who have become interested in her welfare, will be happy to learn.

Fashionable Embroidery. The present revival of interest in embroidery seems likely to be more permanent than any that has preceded it, because it is now something more than a passing fashion in dress, as was the case in England in 1846, when London alone employed 2,000 pair of hands in decorating every conceivable article of dress worn by ladies of fashion. Now it is her own handiwork, the hours of patient stitching, the choice of materials and colors, and the realization of an artistic thought, that the lady of fashion is proud of, not, as formerly, the money that these cost. She has now a real appreciation of the beauty of her India shawl, with its 700 stitches to the square inch, and other features that make her treasures of old lace so valuable. The mere filling in of worsted-work is super-seded by an occupation that requires thought, knowledge, taste and skill; the promised slippers or sofa cushion are no longer so much to be dreaded, and even the afghan, chair back and chauffepied are assuming artistic importance—things that can not only be tolerated for the sake of association, but which we can conscientiously admire and be thankful for. Of course many things are em-broidered which should be perfectly plain, if, indeed, as in the case of a val-ance for a mantel, they should exist at all; but this lack of discrimination is incident to all beginnings, and we may feel certain that the enthusiasm which ment that will acknowledge its incongruity, and by that time the heat and soot of the fire will have rendered it unsightly enough to be consigned to the attic. among the useless accumulations of the past. - A. F. Oakey, in Harper's Magazine.

This man, this weak, foolish vessel, the chairs were all piled upon the tables, and a man was sweeping the dry floor with a dry broom and the most bewildering energy. The prospect weekly and a man was sweeping the dry floor blushington's right away, won't you, dear?" dering energy. The prospect was not promising, but not altogether cheerless. It was clear proof that people did some-times sweep in London. The dust was a little too thick for weak lungs, how-ever, and the stranger went out. He walked to several other restaurants and couldn't get in at all. So he drifted arrived. The stranger sat down and looked around. Nobody took the slightest notice of him, and after awhile he rapped for a waiter. Then one of them came, staring at him un-pleasantly. The American said he would take breakfast. The waiter replied that they did not serve anything until twelve. Everybody breakfasted at home. Well, yes, he would try and get something for the gentleman, but it was against the rules. He departed, having left this suggestion of an extra fee. By and by he came back with fried sole, eggs, coffee, rolls and a chop.

The American ate voraciously, and called for the bill. His waiter reckoned it up rapidly in his head at seven shillings, or $1.75, and the foolish stranger mind. paid him a shilling besides. Two or three days later he discovered that he had been overcharged by three shillings. Thus it cost him just one dollar of stealings and fees to learn to eat breakfast at home. This same man made a nice row in a restaurant at dinner one night when he first arrived. He had been warned to keep on the look-out for overcharges, and by the time his meal was finished he was in a good mood for that sort of a thing. He had arrived in the restaurant at five o'clock, and had called for a bill of fare. It was printed on a sheet of paper just the size of a page of the Chicago News. Half the items were in red ink. This indicated that they were special dishes for that day. He had soup, and ordered boiled mutton in red ink. The waiter consulted with the cook, and said the mutton would be done in three minutes. The stranger waited. In ten minutes the waiter came back and said the cook had concluded not to serve any more mutton that day. The American said he would have a lamb chopalso in red ink. Another consultation, mouth for any more things and not get them. Get me anything you have got."

He received a fair sort of a dinner, but he was out of sorts all the time. It is no laughing matter to work one's imagination up to one thing and get another. When it came to making out the bill you may image how carefully he watched his man putting down the items. As the waiter wrote, he talked. This is how it ran:

"One soup, one radishes and butter, one new potatoes, one turbot, one steak, one asparagus, one peas, one Bass'-how many breads?"

"What?" "How many breads?"

"None of your business."

"Well, I'll have to charge for two." "Charge? You don't charge for

"Yes, sir. A penny for each bread." "Humph! Well, I had one." This very sulkily.

"How many butters?" "Eh?"

"How many butters?"

-The old story-and-a-half residence just north of the main building of the cotton factory has been put upon rollers and is being taken up River street, to the mony, the party made known their morocco factory lot, where it is to be re- coming, and the afternoon was given up paired and occupied by Mr. E. W. Hilt to an old fashioned social chat and enas his residence.

-Dr. Whiting will deliver the oration in this city on Decoration Day, and those who have heard the doctor on public occasions will feel assured that he will deliver one of the most eloquent and touching addresses ever heard in this city on Decoration Day.

-Mr. Matthew Sullivan, who resides on the corner of Ravine and Chatham entire generation, they have attained well-mer. | streets, in the First ward, and is employsted rank among the few staple remedies of the ed in the round house of the Chicago & Northwestern railway, had the misfortune to crush one of his feet very badly last night while at his work.

> -Mrs. J. S. Day, Janesville's favorite elocutionist, took part in an entertainment in Fort Atkinson, on Wednesday night, at the opening of the new city hall, and was received with round after round of applause. Mrs. Day will take part in an entertainment given in Brodhead on to-morrow evening.

-Herbert L. Low, of Anamosa, Iowa the special agent of the Western Department of the Watertown Fire Insurance Co., of Watertown, New York, is in the city to-day, for the purpose of settling the recent loss of Mr. Benoit, caused by the fire of Monday night. The loss on the furniture was amicably adjusted, the damage being fixed at $53.85.

-Mr. Hathron has commenced the enlargement of his building on Franklin street, adjoining the Myers block. The building will be one story higher and about fifteen feet added to the depth, all pleted it will be occupied, the lower part as a blacksmith shop, and the upper story as a paint shop. A good improvement for that location.

-A team of horses belonging to Mr. Bainfield became unmanageable near the court house park yesterday afternoon, and started on a run. They were turned into the park, but upon striking the curbing, the pole of the wagon broke and the horses were stopped. One of the horses was badly hurt on one of its is in the city, a guest of her cousin, Miss fore legs, but no other damage was done.

> -A covey of school girls, attending the high school, formed themselves into an æsthetic brigade, consisting of nice "love-sick maidens, etc,." and, decked with a huge representation of a fullgrown sunflower on each of their broad. brimmed hats, marched through the streets this morning on their way to school. Sheldon, Frank Vecher, and J. H. Palmeter, Fort Atkinson, A. A. Skavlem, Beloit, and Richard Smith, Whitewater.

-Judging from the numerous press notices at hand, the Fry concert company will give an excellent entertainment at the Guards' armory to-morrow evening. When they appeared at Zanesville, Ohio, the Daily Times of that city said: 'Those who were present express the highest delight at the entertainment, and the performers were called and recalled until it seemed cruel to ask them to appear again. Upon their return, the Fry fam ily will be greeted by a deservedly cro wded house."

-Odd Fellows' hall was filled with members of the order and their families last evening, called together for a social reunion. The party passed an hour or so in social conversation and games, when Anderson's orchestra was tuned up and a right merry dance was had upon the canvased carpet. All happily enjoyed themselves, and the amusement was continued until one o'clock. It is hoped that these social gatherings will be repeated at reasonable intervals during the Surprise Party.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bear were very happily surprised this afternoon. To-day being the fortieth anniversary of their wedding, their relatives and friends arranged the details for the party, and at two o'clock this afternoon, a large number of guests gathered at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Bear, on Glen street, in the Second ward, and without much, if any, cerejoyment. Representatives of four gen. erations were present, beside many For BRUSH, friends who have long held Mr. and Mrs. Bear's friendship in very high esteem. The party is in full sway of enjoyment as we go to press, and all, old and young, are having a happy time.

Court Notes.

The Circuit Court met at ten o'clock this morning, and again adjourned antil nine o'clock to-morrow morning, the "expert" in the Fond du Lac case not being prepared to answer the questions on crossexamination. The question is relating to the condition of the bank upon certain days in 1880, and to answer which, the witness is compelled to examine in detail all the accounts of the bank. The witness remains at the court house during the recess, and is kept busy at the books of the bank, that he may be prepared to answer the questions when the court of one of the worst cases of skin disease known The patient is a man forty years old; had suffered fifteen years. His eyes, scalp and nearly his whole body presented a frightful appear-ance. Had had the attention of twelve differance. Had had the attention of twelve different physicians, who prescribed the best remedies known to the profession, such as iodine potassium, arsenie, corrosive sublimate, sarsaparilla, etc Had paid $500 for medical treatment with but little relief. I prevailed upon him to use the CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, and the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally. He did so, and was completely cured. The skin on his head, face, and many other parts of his body, which presented a most loathsome appearance, is now as soft and smooth as an infant's, with no scar or trace of disease left behind. He has now been cured twelve months. Reported by F. H. BROWN, Esq., Barnwell, S. C.

Rev. Dr. Drake, in detailing his experience with the CUTICURA REMEDIES, said that through Divine Providence one of his parishioners was cured of a scrofulous sore, which was slowly draining away his life, by the CUTICURA RESOL-VENT internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally The poison that fed the dis-ease was completely driven out.

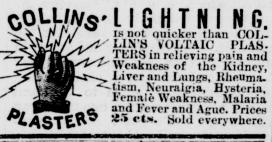

ECZEMA

Sixteen months since an eruption broke out on my leg and both feet, which turned out to be Eczema, and caused me great pain and annoyance. I tried various remedies with no good results, until I used the CUTICURA RESOLVENT in ternally and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP ex-ternally, which entirely cured me so that my skin is as smooth and natural as ever. LEN. M. FRAILEY, 64 South St. Baltimore.
